

GERMANS CAPTURE POLAND CITY OF LODZ

BERLIN REPORTS TAKING OF THE TOWN SUNDAY

At Point of Bayonet Kaiser's Troops Forge Ahead Fifteen Miles

MOST PITILESS BATTLE OF EASTERN WAR

Both Russians and Germans Exhausted Their Ammunition and Fought With Bayonets and Butts of Their Guns—Germans Rush Forward Over the Bodies of Their Dead Comrades—Siberian Troops Prove Their Bravery by Attacking a Battery of the Kaiser's Army and Take Trenches From the Surprised Germans.

Berlin, via London, Dec. 7.—It is officially announced that the Germans occupied Lodz Sunday.

Germans Cut Passage

Petrograd, Dec. 7.—The most tragic moment of the fighting about Lodz thus far, it is reported here, occurred between Tuszyn and Brzeziny, south-east of Lodz. Heavy German forces which had penetrated to Tuszyn, it appears, were surrounded and obliged to fight their way to Brzeziny to unite with the main body. The Russians essayed counter-attack after counter-attack to prevent the junction, but the Germans cut a passage, at the point of the bayonet, for a distance of fifteen miles.

This battle is called the most pitiless fight of the war. Ninety per cent of the German officers were put out of action, and many regiments had less than 100 men left. The fighting lasted thirty-six hours. The Germans fell in rows, but their comrades pushed forward over the bodies and hurled themselves against the Russians.

Fought With Bayonets

Lodz was subjected Saturday to a vicious attack and bombardment. The heaviest fighting was for the possession of a Jewish cemetery on the outskirts of the city. This position changed hands twice. As the result of the many attacks and counter-attacks, the German and Russian troops exhausted their ammunition, but continued fighting with bayonets and rifle butts.

Siberians Win Success

News dispatches from the front attribute the Russian success in crushing the German forces near Lodz chiefly to the endurance and tireless ness of Siberian troops. The entire wooded region from Brzeziny to Krupia is described in these dispatches as a German graveyard. Here an unsupported Siberian battalion is reported to have charged a battery of heavy German artillery and to have bayoneted the gunners.

The dead and wounded in this district are reported to be so thick that the Russian hospital corps, after working three days, had not cleared the field. Most of the Germans treated showed bayonet wounds.

Take and Retake Trenches

The Siberians, after a long march, entered prepared trenches and immediately asked permission to attack Ragow, where the Germans were entrenched in a slight rise of the ground. The Siberians deployed and attacked the German position from two sides. The unexpectedness of the Russian assault surprised the Germans and the first trenches were quickly taken, though the Germans soon recaptured them. In the next few hours these trenches were taken and retaken three times.

Retains Second Place on Ballot in State, While Democrats Drop to Third Position—Gifford Pinchot Has Plurality Over Palmer in Clearfield County—Prohibitionists' Small Vote.

The complete returns from the election of November have been tabulated at the state department, and the figures, although belated, will be of interest to the citizens of Pennsylvania. Especially gratifying to the members of the Washington party are the figures showing the vote received by Gifford Pinchot, Washington candidate for United States senator. Despite the fact that there was a Republican landslide in the state, caused by the false calamity howl of special privilege, Mr. Pinchot rolled up a handsome vote, exceeding that of A. Mitchell Palmer by almost three thousand and enabling the Washington party to retain second place on the ballot and relegating the Democratic party from first place to third. The official figures follow:

Pinchot, Washington	202,555
Pinchot, Bull Moose	48,875
Pinchot, Roosevelt Progressive	17,556
Penrose, Republican	492,326

THE DICKINSON DEER CASE COMES TO TRIAL AT LAST

Criminal court opened this morning with a long list of more or less important cases on the list for trial. After the preliminary work of the morning, had been concluded Judge Bell appointed Henry Northover, of Morrisdale, foreman of the grand jury.

The first case taken up this afternoon was that of the commonwealth vs. Dr. B. H. Dickinson, charged with having shot and killed a buck deer, the horns of which are alleged to have been shorter than is prescribed by law. Contrary to almost general belief this case, begun in this court about a year ago, has never been tried. It has been continued for various reasons from term to term.

Judge Searle, of Wayne county, sitting here, last summer quashed the indictment against Dr. Dickinson, but the state supreme court reversed Judge Searle and ordered that the case be tried. It is probable that the case will occupy considerable time, as many witnesses, expert and otherwise, will be heard on both sides.

LUTHERAN PASTOR TO PREACH AN EVANGELISTIC SERMON

Next Sunday evening all forms of services will be thrown to the four winds at the English Lutheran church and an evangelistic meeting will take its place. The pastor, Rev. C. R. Altonbach, will preach a regular evangelistic sermon, provided a certain lady who asked him why he never preached evangelical sermons, when he thought he had been preaching them all his life, is present. If she is not the regular church service will be held, and this sermon postponed until the next time she comes to church.

Oyster Supper

The Ladies Aid society of the Baptist church will hold an oyster supper in the Blacker building, on Third street. The supper will start at 5 o'clock and everybody is cordially invited.

The program of the Elk's memorial service, published in the Progress on Saturday, was carried out in a very interesting manner, although there was only a fair-sized audience present.

Aizoni Ins Killed by Mexicans

Naco, Ariz., Dec. 7.—An urgent appeal to their United States senators was sent yesterday by citizens of Naco suffering under the harassment of continual striking of Mexican bullets in their city. In the past five months five persons have been killed in Naco and forty-two wounded by shots from the siege of the Mexican town of Naco just across the border.

Neutral Merchant Ships Damaged In North Sea

London, Dec. 7.—Two merchant ships flying the flags of neutral nations were damaged greatly by the explosion of a mine in the North sea today. The Finnish steamer Veilde, so reports from Stockholm state, has been badly wrecked and a number of her crew killed off the German coast by the explosion of a German mine. The ship Luna was sunk by a German mine on December 4 and all of her crew but one drowned. A Turkish steamer, so late reports say, has also been greatly damaged by a mine in the North sea and reported to Constantinople in a crippled condition.

(By United Press)

Paris, Dec. 7.—The allies are pushing forward from the coast to Argonne. An unofficial report says that the English have suffered heavy losses between Ypres and Noves, but are still holding the country.

"The allies continue to attack in the region left of the Yser," the statement declares, "and are subjecting the Germans to heavy loss in the Champagne lake regions."

The French army is steadily receiving reinforcements, the statement indicated.

Berlin Admits Retreat

Berlin, Dec. 7.—The evacuation by the Germans Saturday night of Vermelles, southeast of Bethune, northern France, was officially announced in a statement issued yesterday. The statement says:

"Vermelles was evacuated by us according to our plan, on account of the continuous French artillery fire, which was causing unnecessary loss. The buildings which remained standing were blown up by us, and our troops occupied positions prepared east of Vermelles, so that the enemy could not follow in this direction."

Seriously Menace German Line

Paris, Dec. 7.—The allies continue to push forward in Flanders and northern France, although last night's official communication said there was nothing important to announce. Unofficial reports, however, state that the French have seriously interfered with the German communication between Metz and the Woerw district, in France, for here, as elsewhere, command of the roads is of the greatest importance to the armies.

Germans Strengthen Lines

Berlin, Dec. 7.—An official statement today confirms rumors that the Germans are adding strength to their entire line and are preparing for a severe bombardment of several towns now in the possession of the allies. The Austrians and Turks have both gained several minor victories and the troops are winning in the region south of Belgrade.

DEC. 1914

Good evening! Speak kindly to your neighbor; you may want to borrow his snow shovel this winter.

Make a new record for the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals in Clearfield this year.

Hard cider can now be expected to help in the raising of disturbances in rural communities.

And then it may be said that too much of a good thing grows monotonous—rain for instance.

However, there are many people who prefer to read the news of the day on the day it happens.

Farmers who take the plow by the handle at this time of year will be busy furrows ahead next spring.

In sowing mines in the path of merchant ships of neutral nations Germany is likely to reap a whirlwind of disaster.

Clearfield's first municipal Christmas tree should be a success, and it can be made so by the cooperation of the citizens.

Nevertheless, it is not likely that the old song, "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," will be popular at the state capital this winter.

Altoona took a church census of the city yesterday. Wonder what the result would be if a census of church members were taken in Clearfield.

So long as such men as Penrose, Vane, McNicholl and Barnes run the Republican party there will be need of the continuance of the Progressive party.

By reading the advertisements in the Progress and making a list of the things you wish to buy you will be greatly aided in buying your Christmas gifts.

Germany reports a casualty list of over six hundred and fifty-eight thousand since the war began, but the name of Emperor William does not head the list.

Two more candidates for provision of president of Mexico have appeared in the field with their armies, thus adding to the gaiety of the season in that republic.

Still, on a Prohibition platform, Bryan couldn't carry a single Southern state, as the southern Prohibitionists are such from moral motives, not from a political standpoint.

Killing one buck deer with any kind of horns seems to be a much more serious crime in the opinion of the state game commission than the slaying of a couple of score of does.

While Americans and others are sending relief to the Belgians the Germans are collecting millions of dollars in war tribute from the distressed people of Belgian cities.

The Kaiser has refused to permit any more photographs to be taken of the towns his troops have ruined, which may indicate that he is ashamed of the desolation he has caused in Belgium and France.

Winter will find the European nations still at war, but the cold will render fighting still more disastrous to the troops which are not provided with heavy clothing. The "heat of battle" cannot keep men in the trenches warm.

Secretary Bryan overlooks the fact that thousands of horses from his own state of Nebraska are being shipped abroad for war purposes while he is making a big fuss over contracts for submarines from European nations received by a Pennsylvania firm. Bryan is nothing if he is not inconsistent.

THE OFFICIAL RETURNS

Thirteen counties in this state gave Senator Penrose three hundred and thirty-four thousand and eighty-eight of the five hundred and thirteen thousand and twelve votes he received at the recent election. Corrupt and contented Philadelphia alone have the senator one hundred and sixty-four thousand five hundred and nineteen votes. In the counties other than the thirteen the senator received one hundred and seventy-eight thousand nine hundred and twenty-four votes. Gifford Pinchot, Washington candidate for United States senator, carried thirty-one of the counties over A. Mitchell Palmer, the Democratic candidate and received a total of two hundred and sixty-nine thousand and eighty-six votes. Pinchot's plurality over Palmer was over three thousand. Had Palmer withdrawn there is not the least doubt that Pinchot would have been elected, as the combined vote of Pinchot and Palmer was forty thousand in excess of the vote cast for Penrose.

But it is useless to discuss this phase of the result of the election at this late date. What must be apparent to every intelligent politician in Pennsylvania is that the Washington party vote of more than a quarter of a million must be reckoned with by candidates of the two old parties. What must be equally apparent is that the talk of the disintegration of the Washington party in this state is mere bluff on the part of the Republican leaders and Republican newspapers.

There are thousands of voters in Pennsylvania who believe that the time will come when all of the principles of the Progressive party will triumph, as some of them have already triumphed by adoption by Democratic and Republican law makers, at the insistence of the people. These principles are so humane and excellent in other ways that the people will in time demand their incorporation into laws, and if neither the Democratic nor the Republican party gives the people what they want the Progressive party will be asked to do so and will do so.

DR. DICKINSON'S CASE

The taxpayers, both of the county and the state, should demand that the case brought through the state game commission against Dr. Dickinson, of Pittsburgh, be ended in one way or another. This Pittsburgher was charged with killing a buck deer the horns on whose head were alleged to have been an eighth of an inch, more or less, short of the length specified by law. Tried in the lower court last year and carried to a higher court the case comes back to the Clearfield county court this week for retrial.

It is at this time immaterial whether the doctor violated the law or whether he is innocent of the charge, the prosecution has developed into something approaching persecution. Witnesses there are who aver that the horns on the buck killed by Dr. Dickinson were of the legal length, but what all are ready to swear to is that the deer is dead and that the case should meet a similar fate to save the piling up of costs upon the taxpayers.

In view of the fact that in the last hunting season at least fifty does were shot either intentionally or accidentally and the further fact that but one or two persons have been arrested for these violations of the law go far to convince the true sportsmen that there is no systematic effort on the part of the state game commission and its wardens to bring to justice the hunters who indiscriminately kill deer or any other kind of game. The grand stand play of the commission in the Dickinson case is becoming very tiresome to sportsmen who are aware of the faults of the commission.

THE WEATHERVANE

In the crisp October weather, As I sauntered through the square, Bedlam seemed unloosed from tether. From the concourse gathered there. Still fast flocked the curious people. Justing in from street and lane, For the tallest city steeple Showed a wondrous weathervane.

Hat it wore, as any maid does, And beneath a jaunty arm Something looked as a sunshade does. When it's carried thus to charm, Ribbons from its waist were veering, Silhouetted on the blue, And beneath the skirt outpeeping Was a natty little shoe.

Round I wheeled, and there was Mabel. Rosebud mouth a-quivering. "Am I," cried she, "thus unstable? And I like that horrid thing?"

"How unjust and how unkind, dear!" (This I felt it wise to say) "But I really shouldn't mind, dear, If the wind would blow my way!"

It is probable that the preserves will be established in the spring. One will be located in the Loyalsock region of Lycoming county, one where Lycoming, Clinton, Potter and Tioga come together, and one in Cameron county.

These are the new thin blown glasses that represent the greatest advance in the glass working art. Blown from the best quality of lead glass, with your own initials blasted into the side with the new process of sand blowing in which thousands of grains of sand are shuttled against the sides of the glasses; decorated with a beautiful wreath encircling the initial, applied in the same manner as the initial; they represent absolutely the last word in table ware. They are luxurious and beautiful in the extreme, though very expensive and difficult to obtain, except in a few of the metropolitan cities. These tumblers have been manufactured to supply the highest grade trade and anybody will appreciate the opportunity of obtaining a set of them under the terms of the premium offer.

The one feature of these tumblers that is especially interesting, and which supplies the reason we are enabled to extend this remarkable premium offer, lies in the fact that they are made in accordance with the latest patented non-chip rim. The fact that a tumbler with an edge, which is protected from striking when it is accidentally overturned on a table or counter and saved from chipping, thus reducing breakage to a minimum, indicates the correctness of the design. The shapes are the most symmetrical practical and tasty ever devised; they are pleasing to the eye and there are no unsightly bulges or distorted lines to make them be classed as freaks.

Every woman loves dainty table-ware—a table service that will indicate the refinement and taste of the owner, that shows the house-wife distinguished for good judgment and house-keeping ability. But usually such table ware is very costly, and has been limited in use.

The clubs and lodge rooms will appreciate sets of these glasses with the initials of the lodges thereon. And they would decorate the table of societies, etc.

passed to be a message. You have become that once more, and here you are!"

"And what are you going to do with me now that you have got me?" "There will be two courses," Braine rasped into a drawer and drew out a thick roll of bills. "There are here something like $5,000."

"Quite a tidy sum, enough for a chap to get married on."

The two eyed each other steadily. And in his heart Braine sighed. For he saw in this young man's eyes incorruptibility.

"It is yours on one condition," said Braine, reaching out his foot stealthily toward the button which would summon Samson.

"And that is," interpolated Norton, "that I join the Black Hundred."

"Or the great beyond, my lad," took up Braine, his voice crisp and cold. Norton could not repress a shiver. Where had he heard this voice before?

"Murder in cold blood!" he managed to say.

"Indefinite imprisonment. Choose."

"I have chosen."

"H'm!" Braine rose and went over to the sideboard for the brandy. "I'm going to offer you a drink to show you that personally there are no hard feelings. You are in the way. After you, our friend, Jones. This brandy is not poisoned, neither are the glasses. Choose either and I'll drink first. We are all desperate men, Norton; and we stop at nothing. Your life hangs by a hair. Do you know where Hargrave is?"

Norton eyed his liquor thoughtfully. "Do you know where the money is?" Norton smelt of the brandy.

"I am sorry," said Braine. "I should have liked to win over a head like yours."

Norton nonchalantly took out his watch, and that bit of bravado perhaps saved his life. In the case of his watch he saw a brutal face behind him. Without a tremor, Norton took up his glass.

"I am sorry to disappoint you," he said, "but I shall neither join you nor go to by-by."

Quick as a bird shadow above grass, he lunged the brandy over his shoulder into the face of the man behind. Samson yelled with pain. Almost at the same instant Norton pushed over the table, upsetting Braine with it. Next he dashed through the curtains, slammed the door, and fled to the street, very shaky about the knees, if the truth is to be told.

General Henderson's views upon the latest Balkan muddle were missing from the Blade the following morning. Norton, instead of returning to the general's and fulfilling his assignment like a dutiful reporter, hurried out to Riverside to acquaint Jones with what had happened. Jones was glad to see him safe and sound.

"That new reporter started the game," he said. "I overheard a word or two while he was talking in the booth. All your telephone booths are ramshackle affairs, you use them so constantly. I tried to find you, but you were out of sight. Now, tell me what happened."

"Sh!" warned Norton as he spied Florence coming down the stairs. "I thought you couldn't come!" she cried. "But ten o'clock!"

"I changed my mind," he replied, laughing.

He caught her arm in his and drew her toward the library. Jones smiled after them with that enigmatical smile of his, which might have signified irony or affection. After half an hour's chat, Florence, quite aware that the two men wished to talk, retired.

At the door Norton told Jones what had taken place at 49 Elm street.

"Ah! we must not forget that number," mused Jones. "My advice is, keep an eye on this Gregg chap. We may get somewhere by watching him."

"Do you know where Hargrave is?" Jones scratched his chin reflectively.

What Irvin S. Cobb

Writes about Conditions in Belgium

Recently I have been in four of the countries concerned in the present war—Belgium, France, Germany and England. I was also in Holland, having traversed it from end to end within a week after the fall of Antwerp, when every road coming up cut off the south was filled with Belgian refugees.

In Belgium I saw this:

Homeless men, women and children by thousands and hundreds of thousands. Many of them had been prosperous, a few had been wealthy, practically all had been comfortable. Now, with scarcely any exception, they stood all upon one common plane of misery. They had lost their homes, their farms, their workshops, their livings and their means of making livings.

I saw them tramping aimlessly along windswept, rain-washed roads, fleeing from burning and devastated villages. I saw them sleeping in open fields upon miry earth, with no cover and no shelter. I saw them herded together in the towns and cities to which many of them ultimately fled, existing God alone knows how. I saw them—ragged, furtive, scar-crowed, prowling in the scattered ruins of their homes, seeking salvage where there was no salvage to be found. I saw them living like the beasts of the field, upon such things as the beasts of the field would reject.

I saw them standing in lines, waiting for their poor share of the dole share of the charity, which already was nearly exhausted. I saw their towns when hardly one stone stood upon another. I saw their abandoned farm lands, where the harvests rotted in the furrows and the fruit hung mildewed and ungathered upon the trees. I saw their cities where trade was dead and credit was a thing which no longer existed. I saw them staggering from weariness and from the weakness of hunger. I saw all these sights repeated and multiplied infinitely—yes, and magnified, too—but not once did I see a man or woman, or even a child, that wept or cried out.

If the Belgian soldiers won the world's admiration by the resistance which they made against tremendously overpowering numbers, the people of Belgium—the families of their soldiers—should have the world's admiration and pity for the courage, the patience and the fortitude they have displayed under the load of an affliction too dolorous for any words to describe, too terrible for any imaginations to picture.

The Clearfield people have a great opportunity now to show the admiration, pity and sympathy they feel towards these homeless and hungry people. If you cannot go to the big band concert December 11th, send a contribution to the fund. Only a dime means a hot dinner to a cold and famished Refugee.

CONGRESS AGAIN OPENS SESSION

remained unacted upon when the last session of congress ended, have also little chance of passing, because they are not real conservation measures, and are opposed because they would prove of much greater benefit to the special interests than to the public.

Talk of insurgency upon the part of Democrats in the house against the policies of the president has little foundation upon which to rest. So long as caucus rule obtains in both houses, and the spirit and independence of members can both be effectively crushed by caucus action, there is no likelihood of any effective effort to escape the control of the caucus bosses.

The most interesting development in the session is expected through discussion of the army and navy appropriation bills and disclosures of the nation's weakness, both in the army and navy.

SALVATION ARMY WILL TREAT POOR CHILDREN OF TOWN

The Salvation Army, whose headquarters are at 108 Market street will give a special entertainment on Christmas eve with a fine program for children. The army will treat 150 children at the close of the program. This is the number the army cared for last Christmas, and as this is the third year in which the Clearfield corps it is anxious to make it the best yet.

Our knowledge of the town after being stationed here for two years and four months, places us in the position to know the most needy, many perhaps who would not make their wants known to others, but because of the Salvation Army's reputation as a friend of the poor they do not hesitate to approach us. To enable us to carry out our plans we need the support of those who possess the means to help the less fortunate. In times past you have come to our aid, for which we are thankful, and ask you again at this season of the year for your help, either by donating candy, oranges, toys or the money that will help to purchase these things. Thanking you in anticipation.

Yours in the Master Service,

HARRY HEINSBACH,

Captain.

OBITUARY

Henry W. Munoff one of the best known and most highly esteemed residents of Puxuxatun, died at the home of his brother-in-law, Capt. S. A. Craig, in Brookville, Friday evening at 7 o'clock. The deceased was stricken with paralysis two years and four months ago, since which time he had been practically helpless. Six weeks ago he suffered another slight stroke, which gradually sapped his remaining vitality and resulted in his death on Friday evening, December 4.

After an illness extending over a period of twenty-seven weeks Samuel Alexander Galey, for twenty-eight years superintendent of the Allegheny water department and one of that city's best known and most prominent citizens, died at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Allegheny hospital. While it was not expected that he would ever be restored to health, it was not until Saturday morning at 5 o'clock that his illness assumed the critical form which indicated the death was near at hand.

On May 12, 1880, Mr. Galey was united in marriage with Frances M. Campbell, of Clearfield, and to their union were born two sons. William Hugh, deceased, and Samuel A. a plumber, residing at home. He was fraternally affiliated with the Masons, being members of the Hiram lodge and of the Knights Templar and affiliated organizations.

Mrs. Bailey, of DuBois, is a patient at the Clearfield hospital.

RED CROSS SEAL MONEY IS NOT FOR WAR RELIEF

(Special to the Progress)
Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—None of the proceeds from the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals which are being sold widely throughout the United States for the benefit of the anti-tuberculosis movement will be used for war relief purposes, according to a statement issued today, by Ernest P. Bicknell, national director of the American Red Cross.

Mr. Bicknell says: "The American Red Cross is deeply appreciative of the sympathetic interest which has inspired the suggestion from various parts of the United States, that a certain percentage of the Red Cross sales fund, which has been used for the last six years exclusively for the prevention of tuberculosis in the United States, be expended this year to aid the European war sufferers.

While the Red Cross is trying very hard to raise a large war relief fund and is anxious to secure contributions that will increase this fund, we do not feel justified in adopting any policy which will tend to cripple the tuberculosis work in this country, which is dependent for its support to so large an extent on the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals. The announcement that a percentage of the Red Cross seal money would go to our war relief fund might possibly increase the sale, but, in our opinion, the final results would show a distinct loss in that part of the proceeds going for tuberculosis work.

"At the present time there are over one thousand anti-tuberculosis societies distributed over nearly every state in the Union, and even in Vera Cruz, the canal zone and far off Hawaii, which are dependent almost entirely upon the receipts from the Red Cross seal sale for their work during the year 1915. The people of the United States must support this local war against tuberculosis, which annually kills 200,000 people, and at the present time is leaving a trail of a million wounded."

"The culmination of a secret courtship of about two years occurred, when Blanchard Straw and Lily May Snyder were married on November 3 at Blue Ball, which was just about one week from the date on which Mrs. Snyder, who was formerly Mrs. M. Cullough, with some friendly aid, after strenuous efforts, was successful in obtaining a divorce from her former husband. The happy couple immediately took up housekeeping. In this place, arrangements having been made for some time previous. This was a complete surprise to the whole community. Contracting parties are from Blue Ball, where Mr. Straw is employed as a coal miner. A happy future is predicted for the newlyweds. W. J. P.

Great railroad wreck. Headon collosion in "President's special." Yes, you say, as you look at the picture, common-place wreck; that's all. But the joke is, no such wreck happened at all. BANKS WILL RECEIVE BELGIAN RELIEF FUNDS

The citizens of Clearfield are asking for a place of deposit for money which will undoubtedly be given in small amounts for the relief of the Belgian war sufferers. In response to this demand the banks of Clearfield have decided to accept and forward, free of charge, all such funds.

Giving now means Christmas food for Belgian women and children who otherwise may perish from hunger and cold.

KEEP DRUG ADDICTS OUT OF JOINTS

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter the acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish, and fail to eliminate the uric acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and causing causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of those impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which helps overcome uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

GERMANS CAPTURE POLAND CITY OF LODZ

BERLIN REPORTS TAKING OF THE TOWN SUNDAY

At Point of Bayonet Kaiser's Troops Forge Ahead Fifteen Miles

MOST PITILESS BATTLE OF EASTERN WAR

Both Russians and Germans Exhausted Their Ammunition and Fought With Bayonets and Butts of Their Guns—Germans Rush Forward Over the Bodies of Their Dead Comrades—Siberian Troops Prove Their Bravery by Attacking a Battery of the Kaiser's Army and Take Trenches From the Surprised Germans.

Berlin, via London, Dec. 7.—It is officially announced that the Germans occupied Lodz Sunday.

Germans Cut Passage

Petrograd, Dec. 7.—The most tragic moment of the fighting about Lodz thus far, it is reported here, occurred between Tuszyn and Brzeziny, south-east of Lodz. Heavy German forces which had penetrated to Tuszyn, it appears, were surrounded and obliged to fight their way to Brzeziny to unite with the main body. The Russians essayed counter-attack after counter-attack to prevent the junction, but the Germans cut a passage, at the point of the bayonet, for a distance of fifteen miles.

This battle is called the most pitiless fight of the war. Ninety per cent of the German officers were put out of action, and many regiments had less than 100 men left. The fighting lasted thirty-six hours. The Germans fell in rows, but their comrades pushed forward over the bodies and hurled themselves against the Russians.

Fought With Bayonets

Lodz was subjected Saturday to a vicious attack and bombardment. The heaviest fighting was for the possession of a Jewish cemetery on the outskirts of the city. This position changed hands twice. As the result of the many attacks and counter-attacks, the German and Russian troops exhausted their ammunition, but continued fighting with bayonets and rifle butts.

Siberians Win Success

News dispatches from the front attribute the Russian success in crushing the German forces near Lodz chiefly to the endurance and tirelessness of Siberian troops. The entire wooded region from Brzeziny to Krupia is described in these dispatches as a German graveyard. Here an unsupported Siberian battalion is reported to have charged a battery of heavy German artillery and to have bayoneted the gunners.

The dead and wounded in this district are reported to be so thick that the Russian hospital corps, after working three days, had not cleared the field. Most of the Germans treated showed bayonet wounds.

Take and Retake Trenches

The Siberians, after a long march, entered prepared trenches and immediately asked permission to attack Ragow, where the Germans were entrenched in a slight rise of the ground. The Siberians deployed and attacked the German position from two sides. The unexpectedness of the Russian assault surprised the Germans and the first trenches were quickly taken, though the Germans soon recaptured them. In the next few hours these trenches were taken and retaken three times.

Merchant Liner Sunk By Germans off Chila

Santiago, Chile, Dec. 7.—The German ship Prinzess Alice today sank a merchant liner chartered for Buycan, a port on the Chilean coast, where the ship was to have received a cargo and take it on to New York. The ship was sunk at Tudago Bay, twenty miles from Valparaiso.

Servians Defeat Austrians

Nish, via London, Dec. 7.—The Servian war office issues the following official statement: "On the whole front the success of the Servian army is reported. Everywhere the Austrians have been repulsed. We have captured two general officers, sixteen officers, 2400 men and a large quantity of booty. On one of our fronts we captured from the enemy four complete batteries."

GET A DOG, WALK FOR HEALTH AND BECOME A DANCER. SAY S PRINCESS TROUBETZKOY. Princess Paul Troubetzkoy and her Favorite Siberian Sled Dog Ready for a Walk.

New York, Dec. 7.—The latest duty advice of New York society comes from the Princess Troubetzkoy, the sculptor. She says New York society women do not walk outdoors. "Get a dog," she says, "and make it take you on a ramble in the park. Dogs must walk, it is natural with them." Every morning the Princess takes a walk in the park with her two huge Siberian sled dogs, who tug her along at a rapid gait. The Princess is a Russian and under Troubetzkoy, wife of Prince Pierre Troubetzkoy.

OFFICIAL RETURNS OF THE ELECTION

Figures Which Will Interest The Readers of the Progress

VOTE OF WASHINGTON PARTY
Retains Second Place on Ballot in State, While Democrats Drop to Third Position—Gifford Pinchot Has Plurality Over Palmer in Clearfield County—Prohibitionists' Small Vote.
The complete returns from the election of November have been tabulated at the state department, and the figures, although belated, will be of interest to the citizens of Pennsylvania. Especially gratifying to the members of the Washington party are the figures showing the vote received by Gifford Pinchot, Washington candidate for United States senator. Despite the fact that there was a Republican landslide in the state, caused by the false calamity howl of special privilege, Mr. Pinchot rolled up a handsome vote, exceeding that of A. Mitchell Palmer by almost three thousand and enabling the Washington party to retain second place on the ballot and relegating the Democratic party from first place to third. The official figures follow:
Palmer, Democrat	266,474
Pinchot, Washington	202,555
Pinchot, Bull Moose	48,875
Pinchot, Roosevelt Progressive	17,556
Penrose, Republican	492,326
Penrose, Personal Liberty	20,636
Pinchot's total vote in the state was 269,086; Palmer's total 266,474, and Penrose's 513,012.
Clearfield county's vote was as follows:
Palmer, Democrat	3084
Pinchot, Washington	2669
Pinchot, Bull Moose	1240
Pinchot, Roosevelt Progressive	268
The official vote for governor in the state was:
McCormick, Democrat	312,489
McCormick, Washington	139,699
Brumbaugh, Republican	532,977
Brumbaugh, Keystone	37,847
Brumbaugh, Personal Liberty	17,878
Total for McCormick, 452,198; for Brumbaugh, 588,702.

THE DICKINSON DEER CASE COMES TO TRIAL AT LAST

Criminal court opened this morning with a long list of more or less important cases on the list for trial. After the preliminary work of the morning, had been concluded Judge Bell appointed Henry Northover, of Morrisdale, foreman of the grand jury.

The first case taken up this afternoon was that of the commonwealth vs. Dr. B. H. Dickinson, charged with having shot and killed a buck deer, the horns of which are alleged to have been shorter than is prescribed by law. Contrary to almost general belief this case, begun in this court about a year ago, has never been tried. It has been continued for various reasons from term to term.

Judge Searle, of Wayne county, sitting here, last summer quashed the indictment against Dr. Dickinson, but the state supreme court reversed Judge Searle and ordered that the case be tried. It is probable that the case will occupy considerable time, as many witnesses, expert and otherwise, will be heard on both sides.

LUTHERAN PASTOR TO PREACH AN EVANGELISTIC SERMON

Next Sunday evening all forms of services will be thrown to the four winds at the English Lutheran church and an evangelistic meeting will take its place. The pastor, Rev. C. R. Altonbach, will preach a regular evangelistic sermon, provided a certain lady who asked him why he never preached evangelical sermons, when he thought he had been preaching them all his life, is present. If she is not the regular church service will be held, and this sermon postponed until the next time she comes to church. You are requested to attend this service and bring that neighbor or friend with you who doesn't go to church anywhere, and come prepared to hear straight facts that may hurt. Bring your tabernacle hymn book. If you haven't any borrow one and if you can't borrow one legitimately steal one for the evening.

Oyster Supper

The Ladies Aid society of the Baptist church will hold an oyster supper in the Blacker building, on Third street. The supper will start at 5 o'clock and everybody is cordially invited.

The program of the Elk's memorial service, published in the Progress on Saturday, was carried out in a very interesting manner, although there was only a fair-sized audience present.

Aizoni Ins Killed by Mexicans

Naco, Ariz., Dec. 7.—An urgent appeal to their United States senators was sent yesterday by citizens of Naco suffering under the harassment of continual striking of Mexican bullets in their city. In the past five months five persons have been killed in Naco and forty-two wounded by shots from the siege of the Mexican town of Naco just across the border.

Neutral Merchant Ships Damaged In North Sea

London, Dec. 7.—Two merchant ships flying the flags of neutral nations were damaged greatly by the explosion of a mine in the North sea today. The Finnish steamer Veilde, so reports from Stockholm state, has been badly wrecked and a number of her crew killed off the German coast by the explosion of a German mine. The ship Luna was sunk by a German mine on December 4 and all of her crew but one drowned. A Turkish steamer, so late reports say, has also been greatly damaged by a mine in the North sea and reported to Constantinople in a crippled condition.

(By United Press)

Paris, Dec. 7.—The allies are pushing forward from the coast to Argonne. An unofficial report says that the English have suffered heavy losses between Ypres and Noves, but are still holding the country.

"The allies continue to attack in the region left of the Yser," the statement declares, "and are subjecting the Germans to heavy loss in the Champagne lake regions."

The French army is steadily receiving reinforcements, the statement indicated.

Berlin Admits Retreat

Berlin, Dec. 7.—The evacuation by the Germans Saturday night of Vermelles, southeast of Bethune, northern France, was officially announced in a statement issued yesterday. The statement says:

"Vermelles was evacuated by us according to our plan, on account of the continuous French artillery fire, which was causing unnecessary loss. The buildings which remained standing were blown up by us, and our troops occupied positions prepared east of Vermelles, so that the enemy could not follow in this direction."

Seriously Menace German Line

Paris, Dec. 7.—The allies continue to push forward in Flanders and northern France, although last night's official communication said there was nothing important to announce. Unofficial reports, however, state that the French have seriously interfered with the German communication between Metz and the Woerw district, in France, for here, as elsewhere, command of the roads is of the greatest importance to the armies.

Germans Strengthen Lines

Berlin, Dec. 7.—An official statement today confirms rumors that the Germans are adding strength to their entire line and are preparing for a severe bombardment of several towns now in the possession of the allies. The Austrians and Turks have both gained several minor victories and the troops are winning in the region south of Belgrade.

DEC. 1914

Good evening! Speak kindly to your neighbor; you may want to borrow his snow shovel this winter.

Make a new record for the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals in Clearfield this year.

Hard cider can now be expected to help in the raising of disturbances in rural communities.

And then it may be said that too much of a good thing grows monotonous—rain for instance.

However, there are many people who prefer to read the news of the day on the day it happens.

Farmers who take the plow by the handle at this time of year will be busy furrows ahead next spring.

In sowing mines in the path of merchant ships of neutral nations Germany is likely to reap a whirlwind of disaster.

Clearfield's first municipal Christmas tree should be a success, and it can be made so by the cooperation of the citizens.

Nevertheless, it is not likely that the old song, "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," will be popular at the state capital this winter.

Altoona took a church census of the city yesterday. Wonder what the result would be if a census of church members were taken in Clearfield.

So long as such men as Penrose, Vane, McNicholl and Barnes run the Republican party there will be need of the continuance of the Progressive party.

By reading the advertisements in the Progress and making a list of the things you wish to buy you will be greatly aided in buying your Christmas gifts.

Germany reports a casualty list of over six hundred and fifty-eight thousand since the war began, but the name of Emperor William does not head the list.

Two more candidates for provision of president of Mexico have appeared in the field with their armies, thus adding to the gaiety of the season in that republic.

Still, on a Prohibition platform, Bryan couldn't carry a single Southern state, as the southern Prohibitionists are such from moral motives, not from a political standpoint.

Killing one buck deer with any kind of horns seems to be a much more serious crime in the opinion of the state game commission than the slaying of a couple of score of does.

While Americans and others are sending relief to the Belgians the Germans are collecting millions of dollars in war tribute from the distressed people of Belgian cities.

The Kaiser has refused to permit any more photographs to be taken of the towns his troops have ruined, which may indicate that he is ashamed of the desolation he has caused in Belgium and France.

Winter will find the European nations still at war, but the cold will render fighting still more disastrous to the troops which are not provided with heavy clothing. The "heat of battle" cannot keep men in the trenches warm.

Secretary Bryan overlooks the fact that thousands of horses from his own state of Nebraska are being shipped abroad for war purposes while he is making a big fuss over contracts for submarines from European nations received by a Pennsylvania firm. Bryan is nothing if he is not inconsistent.

THE OFFICIAL RETURNS

Thirteen counties in this state gave Senator Penrose three hundred and thirty-four thousand and eighty-eight of the five hundred and thirteen thousand and twelve votes he received at the recent election. Corrupt and contented Philadelphia alone have the senator one hundred and sixty-four thousand five hundred and nineteen votes. In the counties other than the thirteen the senator received one hundred and seventy-eight thousand nine hundred and twenty-four votes. Gifford Pinchot, Washington candidate for United States senator, carried thirty-one of the counties over A. Mitchell Palmer, the Democratic candidate and received a total of two hundred and sixty-nine thousand and eighty-six votes. Pinchot's plurality over Palmer was over three thousand. Had Palmer withdrawn there is not the least doubt that Pinchot would have been elected, as the combined vote of Pinchot and Palmer was forty thousand in excess of the vote cast for Penrose.

But it is useless to discuss this phase of the result of the election at this late date. What must be apparent to every intelligent politician in Pennsylvania is that the Washington party vote of more than a quarter of a million must be reckoned with by candidates of the two old parties. What must be equally apparent is that the talk of the disintegration of the Washington party in this state is mere bluff on the part of the Republican leaders and Republican newspapers.

There are thousands of voters in Pennsylvania who believe that the time will come when all of the principles of the Progressive party will triumph, as some of them have already triumphed by adoption by Democratic and Republican law makers, at the insistence of the people. These principles are so humane and excellent in other ways that the people will in time demand their incorporation into laws, and if neither the Democratic nor the Republican party gives the people what they want the Progressive party will be asked to do so and will do so.

DR. DICKINSON'S CASE

The taxpayers, both of the county and the state, should demand that the case brought through the state game commission against Dr. Dickinson, of Pittsburgh, be ended in one way or another. This Pittsburgher was charged with killing a buck deer the horns on whose head were alleged to have been an eighth of an inch, more or less, short of the length specified by law. Tried in the lower court last year and carried to a higher court the case comes back to the Clearfield county court this week for retrial.

It is at this time immaterial whether the doctor violated the law or whether he is innocent of the charge, the prosecution has developed into something approaching persecution. Witnesses there are who aver that the horns on the buck killed by Dr. Dickinson were of the legal length, but what all are ready to swear to is that the deer is dead and that the case should meet a similar fate to save the piling up of costs upon the taxpayers.

In view of the fact that in the last hunting season at least fifty does were shot either intentionally or accidentally and the further fact that but one or two persons have been arrested for these violations of the law go far to convince the true sportsmen that there is no systematic effort on the part of the state game commission and its wardens to bring to justice the hunters who indiscriminately kill deer or any other kind of game. The grand stand play of the commission in the Dickinson case is becoming very tiresome to sportsmen who are aware of the faults of the commission.

THE WEATHERVANE

In the crisp October weather, As I sauntered through the square, Bedlam seemed unloosed from tether. From the concourse gathered there. Still fast flocked the curious people. Justing in from street and lane, For the tallest city steeple Showed a wondrous weathervane.

Hat it wore, as any maid does, And beneath a jaunty arm Something looked as a sunshade does When it's carried thus to charm. Ribbons from its waist were veering. Silhouetted on the blue, And beneath the skirt outpeeping Was a natty little shoe.

Round I wheeled, and there was Mabel. Rosebud mouth a-quivering. "Am I," cried she, "thus unstable? And I like that horrid thing?" "How unjust and how unkind, dear!" (This I felt it wise to say) "But I really shouldn't mind, dear, If the wind would blow my way!" —Clinton Scollard in Judge.

NEW GAME PRESERVES LOCATED BY THE STATE

State game and forestry officials are getting together on sites for the six new game preserves, which are to be established on state forestry reservations, and which will make a dozen such spots for game to breed and live without interruption from sportsmen. The preserves are used to stock adjoining lands, and are closed throughout the year.

It is probable that the preserves will be established in the spring. One will be located in the Loyalsock region of Lycoming county, one where Lycoming, Clinton, Potter and Tioga come together, and one in Cameron county.

Get a Set of 6 Initial Tumblers

These are the new thin blown glasses that represent the greatest advance in the glass working art. Blown from the best quality of lead glass, with your own initials blasted into the side with the new process of sand blowing in which thousands of grains of sand are shuttled against the sides of the glasses; decorated with a beautiful wreath encircling the initial, applied in the same manner as the initial; they represent absolutely the last word in table ware. They are luxurious and beautiful in the extreme, though very expensive and difficult to obtain, except in a few of the metropolitan cities. These tumblers have been manufactured to supply the highest grade trade and anybody will appreciate the opportunity of obtaining a set of them under the terms of the premium offer.

The one feature of these tumblers that is especially interesting, and which supplies the reason we are enabled to extend this remarkable premium offer, lies in the fact that they are made in accordance with the latest patented non-chip rim. The fact that a tumbler with an edge, which is protected from striking when it is accidentally overturned on a table or counter and saved from chipping, thus reducing breakage to a minimum, indicates the correctness of the design. The shapes are the most symmetrical practical and tasty ever devised; they are pleasing to the eye and there are no unsightly bulges or distorted lines to make them be classed as freaks.

Every woman loves dainty table-ware—a table service that will indicate the refinement and taste of the owner, that shows the house-wife distinguished for good judgment and house-keeping ability. But usually such table ware is very costly, and has been limited in use.

The clubs and lodge rooms will appreciate sets of these glasses with the initials of the lodges thereon. And they would decorate the table of societies, etc.

A set of these beautiful Tumblers will make a handsome Xmas Gift. Any reader of the Progress may secure them by clipping the coupon below and complying with the conditions.

INITIAL TUMBLER COUPON

Six (6) of these coupons and 48c (to cover cost of handling) will entitle any reader or new subscriber of the Progress, to one set (6) Initial Tumblers as described above.

passed to be a message. You have become that once more, and here you are!"

"And what are you going to do with me now that you have got me?" "There will be two courses," Braine rasped into a drawer and drew out a thick roll of bills. "There are here something like $5,000."

"Quite a tidy sum, enough for a chap to get married on."

The two eyed each other steadily. And in his heart Braine sighed. For he saw in this young man's eyes incorruptibility.

"It is yours on one condition," said Braine, reaching out his foot stealthily toward the button which would summon Samson.

"And that is," interpolated Norton, "that I join the Black Hundred."

"Or the great beyond, my lad," took up Braine, his voice crisp and cold. Norton could not repress a shiver. Where had he heard this voice before?

"Murder in cold blood," he managed to say.

"Indefinite imprisonment. Choose."

"I have chosen."

"H'm!" Braine rose and went over to the sideboard for the brandy. "I'm going to offer you a drink to show you that personally there are no hard feelings. You are in the way. After you, our friend, Jones. This brandy is not poisoned, neither are the glasses. Choose either and I'll drink first. We are all desperate men, Norton; and we stop at nothing. Your life hangs by a hair. Do you know where Hargrave is?"

Norton eyed his liquor thoughtfully. "Do you know where the money is?" Norton smelt of the brandy.

"I am sorry," said Braine. "I should have liked to win over a head like yours."

Norton nonchalantly took out his watch, and that bit of bravado perhaps saved his life. In the case of his watch he saw a brutal face behind him. Without a tremor, Norton took up his glass.

"I am sorry to disappoint you," he said, "but I shall neither join you nor go to by-by."

Quick as a bird shadow above grass, he lunged the brandy over his shoulder into the face of the man behind. Samson yelled with pain. Almost at the same instant Norton pushed over the table, upsetting Braine with it. Next he dashed through the curtains, slammed the door, and fled to the street, very shaky about the knees, if the truth is to be told.

General Henderson's views upon the latest Balkan muddle were missing from the Blade the following morning. Norton, instead of returning to the general's and fulfilling his assignment like a dutiful reporter, hurried out to Riverside to acquaint Jones with what had happened. Jones was glad to see him safe and sound.

"That new reporter started the game," he said. "I overheard a word or two while he was talking in the booth. All your telephone booths are ramshackle affairs, you use them so constantly. I tried to find you, but you were out of sight. Now, tell me what happened."

"Sh!" warned Norton as he spied Florence coming down the stairs. "I thought you couldn't come!" she cried. "But ten o'clock!"

"I changed my mind," he replied, laughing.

He caught her arm in his and drew her toward the library. Jones smiled after them with that enigmatical smile of his, which might have signified irony or affection. After half an hour's chat, Florence, quite aware that the two men wished to talk, retired.

At the door Norton told Jones what had taken place at 49 Elm street.

"Ah! we must not forget that number," mused Jones. "My advice is, keep an eye on this Gregg chap. We may get somewhere by watching him."

"Do you know where Hargrave is?" Jones scratched his chin reflectively.

What Irvin S. Cobb

Writes about Conditions in Belgium

Recently I have been in four of the countries concerned in the present war—Belgium, France, Germany and England. I was also in Holland, having traversed it from end to end within a week after the fall of Antwerp, when every road coming up cut off the south was filled with Belgian refugees.

In Belgium I saw this:
Homeless men, women and children by thousands and hundreds of thousands. Many of them had been prosperous, a few had been wealthy, practically all had been comfortable. Now, with scarcely any exception, they stood all upon one common plane of misery. They had lost their homes, their farms, their workshops, their livings and their means of making livings.

I saw them tramping aimlessly along windswept, rain-washed roads, fleeing from burning and devastated villages. I saw them sleeping in open fields upon miry earth, with no cover and no shelter. I saw them herded together in the towns and cities to which many of them ultimately fled, existing God alone knows how. I saw them—ragged, furtive, scar-crowed, prowling in the scattered ruins of their homes, seeking salvage where there was no salvage to be found. I saw them living like the beasts of the field, upon such things as the beasts of the field would reject.

I saw them standing in lines, waiting for their poor share of the dole share of the charity, which already was nearly exhausted. I saw their towns when hardly one stone stood upon another. I saw their abandoned farm lands, where the harvests rotted in the furrows and the fruit hung mildewed and ungathered upon the trees. I saw their cities where trade was dead and credit was a thing which no longer existed. I saw them staggering from weariness and from the weakness of hunger. I saw all these sights repeated and multiplied infinitely—yes, and magnified, too—but not once did I see a man or woman, or even a child, that wept or cried out.

If the Belgian soldiers won the world's admiration by the resistance which they made against tremendously overpowering numbers, the people of Belgium—the families of their soldiers—should have the world's admiration and pity for the courage, the patience and the fortitude they have displayed under the load of an affliction too dolorous for any words to describe, too terrible for any imaginations to picture.

From Public Ledger.

The Clearfield people have a great opportunity now to show the admiration, pity and sympathy they feel towards these homeless and hungry people. If you cannot go to the big band concert December 11th, send a contribution to the fund. Only a dime means a hot dinner to a cold and famished Refugee.

mained unacted upon when the last session of congress ended, have also little chance of passing, because they are not real conservation measures, and are opposed because they would prove of much greater benefit to the special interests than to the public.

Talk of insurgency upon the part of Democrats in the house against the policies of the president has little foundation upon which to rest. So long as caucus rule obtains in both houses, and the spirit and independence of members can both be effectively crushed by caucus action, there is no likelihood of any effective effort to escape the control of the caucus bosses.

The most interesting development in the session is expected through discussion of the army and navy appropriation bills and disclosures of the nation's weakness, both in the army and navy.

SALVATION ARMY WILL TREAT POOR CHILDREN OF TOWN

The Salvation Army, whose headquarters are at 108 Market street will give a special entertainment on Christmas eve with a fine program for children. The army will treat 150 children at the close of the program. This is the number the army cared for last Christmas, and as this is the third year in which the Clearfield corps it is anxious to make it the best yet.

Our knowledge of the town after being stationed here for two years and four months, places us in the position to know the most needy, many perhaps who would not make their wants known to others, but because of the Salvation Army's reputation as a friend of the poor they do not hesitate to approach us. To enable us to carry out our plans we need the support of those who possess the means to help the less fortunate. In times past you have come to our aid, for which we are thankful, and ask you again at this season of the year for your help, either by donating candy, oranges, toys or the money that will help to purchase these things. Thanking you in anticipation.

Yours in the Master Service,

HARRY HEINSBACH,

Captain.

OBITUARY

Henry W. Munoff one of the best known and most highly esteemed residents of Punxsutawney, died at the home of his brother-in-law, Capt. S. A. Craig, in Brookville, Friday evening at 7 o'clock. The deceased was stricken with paralysis two years and four months ago, since which time he had been practically helpless. Six weeks ago he suffered another slight stroke, which gradually sapped his remaining vitality and resulted in his death on Friday evening, December 4.

After an illness extending over a period of twenty-seven weeks Samuel Alexander Galle, for twenty-eight years superintendent of the Allegheny water department and one of that city's best known and most prominent citizens, died at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Allegheny hospital. While it was not expected that he would ever be restored to health, it was not until Saturday morning at 5 o'clock that his illness assumed the critical form which indicated the death was near at hand.

On May 12, 1880, Mr. Galle was united in marriage with Frances M. Campbell, of Clearfield, and to their union were born two sons. William Hugh, deceased, and Samuel A. a plumber, residing at home. He was fraternally affiliated with the Masons, being members of the Hiram lodge and of the Knights Templar and affiliated organizations.

Mrs. Bailey, of DuBois, is a patient at the Clearfield hospital.

RED CROSS SEAL MONEY IS NOT FOR WAR RELIEF

(Special to the Progress)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—None of the proceeds from the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals which are being sold widely throughout the United States for the benefit of the anti-tuberculosis movement will be used for war relief purposes, according to a statement issued today, by Ernest P. Bicknell, national director of the American Red Cross.

Mr. Bicknell says: "The American Red Cross is deeply appreciative of the sympathetic interest which has inspired the suggestion from various parts of the United States, that a certain percentage of the Red Cross sales fund, which has been used for the last six years exclusively for the prevention of tuberculosis in the United States, be expended this year to aid the European war sufferers.

While the Red Cross is trying very hard to raise a large war relief fund and is anxious to secure contributions that will increase this fund, we do not feel justified in adopting any policy which will tend to cripple the tuberculosis work in this country, which is dependent for its support to so large an extent on the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals. The announcement that a percentage of the Red Cross seal money would go to our war relief fund might possibly increase the sale, but, in our opinion, the final results would show a distinct loss in that part of the proceeds going for tuberculosis work.

"At the present time there are over one thousand anti-tuberculosis societies distributed over nearly every state in the Union, and even in Vera Cruz, the canal zone and far off Hawaii, which are dependent almost entirely upon the receipts from the Red Cross seal sale for their work during the year 1915. The people of the United States must support this local war against tuberculosis, which annually kills 200,000 people, and at the present time is leaving a trail of a million wounded."

MATRIMONIAL

The culmination of a secret courtship of about two years occurred, when Blanchard Straw and Lily May Snyder were married on November 3 at Blue Ball, which was just about one week from the date on which Mrs. Snyder, who was formerly Mrs. M. Cullough, with some friendly aid, after strenuous efforts, was successful in obtaining a divorce from her former husband. The happy couple immediately took up housekeeping in this place, arrangements having been made for some time previous. This was a complete surprise to the whole community. Contracting parties are from Blue Ball, where Mr. Straw is employed as a coal miner. A happy future is predicted for the newlyweds. W. J. P.

GREAT RAILROAD WRECK AT THE GLOBE TONIGHT

Great railroad wreck. Headon collosion in "President's special." Yes, you say, as you look at the picture, common-place wreck; that's all. But the joke is, no such wreck happened at all. It's what might have happened had not a fast automobile overhauled the train and prevented what seemed to the overworked towerman an inevitable headon collision. Thrill of the reels is not in the collision, but in the heroic act of a brave woman in an automobile who headed it off by her pluck and courage. This great two reel feature will be shown at the Globe today.

The table of "The Difference Between Learning and Learning How," by George Ade, America's foremost humorist. A real comedy, showing how a supposed "Bonehead" turned out to be a "Regular Guy." At the Globe today.

"The Countrefores' Plot." A great feature. The secret service detectives night attack on the countrefores' den and the deadly battle in the dark bring this to a sensational

"THE LURE," GREAT PICTURE AT OPERA HOUSE TONIGHT

"The Lure" is the first of a series of 53 plays that the Opera House company has been fortunate enough to secure from the World Film corporation. One of these plays will be shown one evening each week. This play "The Lure" which opens the series, is a Shubert production with the original New York cast and production and including all the stars that appeared in the show when shown in that city.

"The Ninety Nine" is a reel of exceptional interest in this evening program, which promises to be one of William Burson Howard and appeared in the Century Magazine several months ago. The story has gained rather than lost in value in the transformation into a photoplay.

Several other features, making seven reels in all, open this week's program, which promises to be one of the best ever shown here.

climax. At the Globe theatre today.

BANKS WILL RECEIVE BELGIAN RELIEF FUNDS

The citizens of Clearfield are asking for a place of deposit for money which will undoubtedly be given in small amounts for the relief of the Belgian war sufferers. In response to this demand the banks of Clearfield have decided to accept and forward, free of charge, all such funds.

Giving now means Christmas food for Belgian women and children who otherwise may perish from hunger and cold.

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter the acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish, and fail to eliminate the uric acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and causing causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of those impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which helps overcome uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.
